ABOUT HEALTHY TENNESSEE:

Healthy Tennessee is a non-profit organization that provides health education and community training opportunities through health fairs to improve the lives of Tennesseans. An easy access web-site location offers individuals the chance to study current health care prevention tips, review state and national articles concerning in-depth research on nutrition, as well as information on how to implement health fairs in communities across Tennessee.

Dr. Manny Sethi and his wife Maya are the founders of Healthy Tennessee and are implementing a plan to help make Tennessee an even better place to live. Dr. Manny personally travels to communities conducting health care fairs in partnership with local officials in order to enhance awareness and promote a healthier Tennessee.
